Dear Colleagues,
Academia is full of rich traditions and ceremonies. One of the most important traditions that a college can undertake is to recognize outstanding achievement and performance by its faculty and staff. For Santa Ana College, the annual Awards for Excellence ceremony fulfills this purpose. It recognizes the faculty members who were the most accomplished in a number of specific categories for 2012 and it singles out one faculty member as the overall distinguished faculty member for that particular year.

The selection process this year must have been particularly difficult as there were excellent candidates across the board. This is truly a testament to the depth of the faculty talent at Santa Ana College. Our students are fortunate to have access to a faculty that is creative, dedicated, and involved. I consistently hear from students that what distinguishes Santa Ana College from other colleges is that the faculty and staff at SAC care about them. Students know when faculty care about them and when they are disinterested. I am proud that Santa Ana is known as a college that cares about its students and about their success.

Congratulations to all of the faculty members who were selected this year for the 2012 Awards for Excellence. John Wesley said, "Catch on fire with enthusiasm and people will come from miles to watch you burn." There's no doubt that the faculty who were recognized in this year's Awards for Excellence are suffused with enthusiasm and are burning brightly as an inspiration to us all!

Sincerely,

Raúl Rodríguez, Ph.D.
Chancellor

Dear Faculty Colleagues,

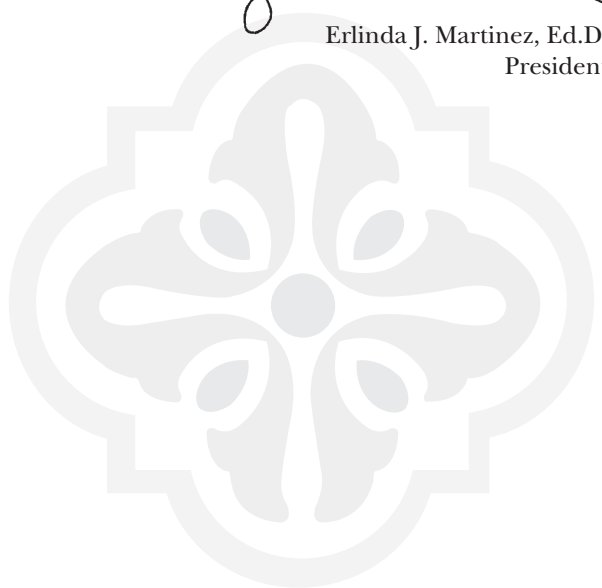

The 2012 Distinguished Faculty Awards recognize peers that have demonstrated innovation, commitment to students and excellence in teaching. It is the highest honor given to faculty members at Santa Ana College. It is especially valued because it is a peer award.

As the President of Santa Ana College, I am humbled to call you colleagues. Santa Ana College's reputation for excellence is because of your pride, dedication and commitment to our students in the classroom. You demonstrate daily the passion to learn and succeed. We continue to be challenged to serve more students with fewer operational dollars as a result of the fiscal shortfall facing our state and our nation. I appreciate your resilience to serve our students all the more during this difficult time.

Thank you for your devotion to your field and your loyalty to our students. By ensuring student success, you make a difference!

As ever,

Erlinda J. Martinez, Ed.D.
President

Distinguished Faculty Award

The Distinguished Faculty Award is the highest honor bestowed by colleagues upon a faculty member of Santa Ana College. Nominations submitted by SAC faculty and students are reviewed according to such criteria as awards and honors received, writing and publication, civic involvement, leadership experiences and other activities that demonstrate commitment to excellence in teaching

Gina Giroux

Professor, Nursing

D.N.Sc., Nursing Science, University of San Diego
M.S.N., Family Health Nursing, University of San Diego
B.S.N., Nursing, California State University, Fullerton

Gina has been a full-time faculty member in SAC's Department of Nursing for the past 29 years. Presently, she is teaching the hospital-based portion of obstetrics, pediatrics, and community-based nursing in the second semester of the program. In this particular course, Gina spends immeasurable hours directing hands-on nursing care to patients by students in an acute care hospital setting. This content is specifically geared to Gina's professional practice and benefits from her rich experiences in maternal-child nursing and across the nursing curriculum.

Working both as a registered nurse and college educator, Gina is completely devoted to providing holistic and safe care with utmost regard to the dignity and value of each life served. In the clinical setting with students, Gina is known for creating an atmosphere that invites life-long learning while challenging students to develop clinical reasoning and judgment. Gina has spent countless hours teaching, evaluating, and mentoring students to become safe and effective practitioners while developing passion for the profession.

For over two decades, Gina was the lead lecture instructor for the obstetrical content of the Nursing program before becoming the Project Director for the Center for Nursing Expansion and Innovation Grant and the Assistant Director of Nursing for the Extended Campus Program. As Project Director, Gina oversaw the activities associated with a multi-million dollar grant that funded the development and implementation of the nursing program expansion. She was essential in the creation of a case management approach to enhancing student success. Through the efforts of this grant, 160 additional nursing students entered the program and the retention rate was a phenomenal 89%. In addition to the expansion arm of the grant, Gina also provided oversight to the innovation piece which included major infrastructure changes to the Nursing Skills Lab and the creation of a simulation lab and computer lab.

Gina has represented the Nursing and Health Sciences Department on the Division Curriculum Committee, the Curriculum and Instruction Council, and the Teaching/Learning Committee. Currently she is the Curriculum Committee Representative for the Science, Mathematics, and Health Sciences Division and the co-chair of Standard I for the SAC Accreditation Report. She also served for many years on the Faculty Development Committee involved with curriculum development funds for special projects. In spring 2011, Gina participated on a faculty panel for the Book of the Year, The Last Lecture by Randy Pausch. She spoke to attendees about finding her passion in the nursing profession, and how she works every day to find greater personal and professional fulfillment.

In addition to her teaching assignment, Gina has served as the Assistant Director of the Extended Campus Nursing Program for the past seven years. This program is a unique partnership for nursing education shared with St. Joseph Hospital in Orange which provides an effective alternative educational setting and schedule for students to complete the requirements for the Associate Degree in Nursing. Each Thursday evening during the academic year, Gina is present at St. Joseph Hospital to assure that the program objectives are being implemented with the highest of standards.

Gina is very close to her immediate and extended family. She enjoys traveling and has many fond memories of Thanksgivings with her husband and two sons in Yosemite.

It is perhaps Gina's own words that best showcase her dedication and gentle élan, "I have been very fortunate over the past 29 years to experience both faculty and administrative roles at SAC and the many activities that are inherent to both. I have put 100% of my talents and treasures into the Santa Ana College community and the community at large to develop my growth potential with the ultimate outcome benefiting the needs of students. I am looking forward to many more productive years at Santa Ana College during which time I will continue to be a role model for the college and the profession of nursing."

Congratulations to Gina
for her dedication to her profession and her many accomplishments in the fields of Nursing and Education.

Distinguished Faculty Finalist

Patricia Waterman

Professor, Art

B.F.A., Illustration,
Art Center College of Design, Pasadena, California

Patricia Waterman has fifteen years of experience in teaching the core skills necessary to succeed as a professional 3D artist: 1) Modeling 2) Animation 3) Texturing & Lighting and 4) Self-promotion. After receiving her Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from the Art Center College in Pasadena, she developed her skills while working as a graphic artist, illustrator, digital 3D artist, and entrepreneur for ten years prior to entering academics. Patricia is also skilled in managing a 3D computer lab, with all of the technical issues involved. Her understanding of technical computer issues can be summed up in a comment she once made, "If you're going to be a racecar driver, you have to understand the mechanics of the car". She has years of proven success in marketing. She has expressed this know-how through the creation and marketing of her own graphic and advertising businesses, the University of California, Irvine's Digital 3D Program and Santa Ana College's 3D Modeling & Animation Program. Patricia founded two companies and is the author of every digital 3D course and certificate program offered during her employment at both colleges as well as the 3D Artist's Guide to Real World Applications which was published in 2003.

Beyond writing curriculum and certificates for Santa Ana College, she does whatever is necessary to build the program, from developing marketing materials, creating special events, to engaging in an array of community outreach events. When Patricia isn't in the classroom she can often be seen shooting off campus to the beach or to a student competition in her little red Mini Cooper with a license plate that reads GRRTFL. Most recently her students competed in the 2013 Vital Link Digital Media Arts Showcase where SAC's 3d Modeling & Animation program scooped up 9 awards.

Her success in building the program can be summed up with one fact; Santa Ana College's 3D Modeling & Animation program is first in Google (after the paid listings) over millions of other businesses and products!

Congratulations to Patricia
for her dedication to her profession and her many accomplishments in the fields of Digital Media and 3D Animation.

Lynn Stewart

Adjunct Faculty, Santa Ana College

Global Business and Entrepreneurship

MBA Global Business - Norwich University, Vermont (graduated cum laude)

B.A. Consumer Affairs/Marketing - California State University, Long Beach

Lynn has spent the past thirteen years as an adjunct instructor at Santa Ana College (SAC) in the Global Business and Entrepreneurship department teaching marketing, international marketing and business writing and communication classes.

During her time at SAC she has been involved with major federal grants. Lynn enjoyed helping to design and develop the international business and marketing programs. She has worked on curriculum development and resource development, as well as student internships and skills development.

The focus of each class Lynn teaches is practical knowledge and ability. Because of her daily connection with local businesses, she is able to bring local company representatives for class projects, exposing her students to a real world perspective. Her goal is that all students leave the class with practical and marketable skills they can apply immediately and/or take to the university level.

In addition to teaching, Lynn is currently a trade consultant/business advisor with the Long Beach Center for International Trade and Development (CITD) and Small Business Development Center (SBDC). She counsels clients on business development, marketing, management and all aspects of international trade. Additionally, she has served as a subject matter expert and faculty member for the Goldman Sachs 10,000 Small Businesses program in Long Beach. She holds a NASBITE International Global Business Professional Certification (CGBP). Her 20 years of business experience included a position as Director of International Sales and Marketing for an environmental company as well as her own consulting company.

What most people don't know about Lynn is that she has studied martial arts. When Lynn wears a different colored belt to class you are never sure if it is a fashion statement or a new martial arts level that she has attained. Lynn has been an important part of the GBE department at SAC and is a consummate team player.

Adjunct Faculty Award

John Tashima

Adjunct Faculty, School of Continuing Education
ESL and High School Subjects

M.A. English - California State University, Long Beach
TESL Certificate - University of California, Irvine Extension
B.A. Literature/Creative Writing - University of California, Santa Cruz

John has been teaching English for the past nine years. He began his career at SER Jobs for Progress, teaching Adult Basic Education (ABE) and GED preparation. John then moved on to the Santa Ana College School of Continuing Education where he teaches ESL and high school-level reading and writing. He also teaches ESL and composition at Cerritos College.

When the Basic Skills Initiative came to the School of Continuing Education, John was struck by the similarities between basic skills “best practices” and ESL teaching methods. Feeling he could make a contribution, he joined the program, first as a researcher, then as a curriculum writer. John worked on the committee that designed the courses for the basic skills reading lab and wrote three high school-level composition courses designed to move students from paragraph to college writing: Composition 1, 2 and 3. This year, John began work as the ESL Reading/Writing Facilitator for the School of Continuing Education. Aside from providing assistance to ESL writing teachers, John has written the twenty SLO Rubrics that will be used to measure how well students in the ESL program are meeting objectives. In conjunction with the ESL department, he has also designed the training program that will help instructors complete the rubrics successfully. John is also active in professional development, having facilitated a number of writing and basic skills workshops. He also presented at the CATESOL Regional Los Angeles Conference in 2008 with Susan Gaer and Danna Weber.

In the classroom, John feels strongly that his most important task is to get students to trust him. Students who trust their instructor become invested in their learning and allow themselves to move beyond memorization. John’s patience, warmth, and genuine interest in students’ lives goes a long way to establishing this, but he also believes that one of the best ways to get students to trust him is by engaging students visually, kinesthetically, interpersonally. Students will understand and be ready to apply concepts better, but just as importantly, they will know they understand these concepts and see value in the classroom environment.

John lives in Santa Ana with “Ralphie,” a cat he rescued from the Centennial Education Center campus. He has been writing the same novel for over ten years.

Creative Expression Award

The Creative Expression Award honors a faculty member whose prose, poetry, audio/video, artistic creations including dance, music, theatre, and/or photography has added to the current body of knowledge in her or his discipline and brought recognition to the institution or resulted in other noteworthy benefits by being published, exhibited or performed.

Mike Maiocco

Adjunct Faculty, Criminal Justice

M.S. Forensic Science, National University (in process)
B.A. Business Management and Marketing, Vanguard University of Southern California

Mike was born and raised in Santa Ana and attended Santa Ana College after high school taking general education and fire technology courses. Mike currently works for the Santa Ana Police Department as a Forensic Specialist/Crime Scene Investigator and is completing his 23rd year there. Mike has worked many violent crime scenes including but not limited to murders, fatal traffic collisions, sexual assaults, officer involved shootings, robberies, burglaries, domestic violence, and suicides. During his time with the SAPD, he has worked in several ancillary positions as well including the Traffic Division, 911 Communications Section, Homeland Security Section, SWAT/Crisis Negotiation Team, and the Training Division as a First Aid/CPR/AED trainer. Mike also teaches seminars in crime scene investigation and the hiring process and can be found guest speaking at various functions and events. Mike has received many awards including a police service medal of valor for attempting to extricate a teenage boy from a burning vehicle.

Mike enjoys teaching and is excited knowing he is offering his students a reality based approach to law enforcement. He not only educates the students with the theories behind the curriculum but prepares the student with the realities of what they can expect when they reach their occupational goals. Mike has partnered with Police and Fire Publishing authoring a workbook to allow the students to use a hands-on approach to supplement their learning.

CSI: Beyond the Yellow Tape, adopted at numerous colleges across the nation, offers students an opportunity to explore beyond the theories of a normal textbook and explains the reasoning as to why and how the actions of a crime scene investigator are performed. The book has several components that allow students to: 1) prepare for a career in law enforcement, 2) apply what they learn from the lectures in class, and 3) use it as a reference manual in the future when they do get hired as a law enforcement officer. Mike wrote this textbook in an easy to read format while adding Quick Reference (QR) codes to each chapter so students can scan the QR code and watch the videos on their smart phone to reinforce the subject matter and what was lectured in class. Chapter review questions and real scenarios were added for the students so they can understand the learning outcomes and stimulate critical thinking. Finally, a “scent” page with various types of odors encountered at a crime scene has been incorporated into the book to prepare students for the realities of the job.

Mike believes in taking each student’s education very seriously and understands the demands that college brings but also feels it is important to ready the students for the realities of life after college. By using his textbook, Mike prepares his “law enforcement professionals in training” (his students) to be close to a real crime scene without exposing them to the dangers of the job and offers them advice on the best way to pursue their career goals.

This American Bar Association Approved program is intended to prepare students to meet the California Business and Profession code regulations to be a Paralegal in the State of California. A paralegal works under the direct supervision of a licensed member of the California State Bar in providing legal services to the public.

Students are actively involved in the expanded internship and work experience program. Students are involved and are student members of the Orange County Paralegal Association, and one student is serving as the Student Co-Chair. Students have served over 500 hours of volunteer service through the Legal Aid society. The paralegal students are one of the top certificate and degree achievers for Santa Ana College.

Faculty responsible for the program presently work with the Legal Aid Society of Orange County to provide internship students to assist in the providing of legal services to indigent and low income residence of Orange County. This year Santa Ana College students under the supervision of Professor Robinson will have provided 500 hours of volunteer service to the community. In addition our supervised work experience/internship students have provided 1100 hours of service to the legal community.

Professors Manzano and Robinson complete 24 hours of certified continuing legal education in compliance with the California State Bar regulations. Both are active members of the California State Bar and the American Association for Paralegal Education, and they regularly attend the regional conferences. Professor Robinson is a member of the Orange County Bar association and both are involved with the Orange County Paralegal Association. The paralegal faculty represent the college at the Los Angeles/Orange County Workforce Development Leaders consortium. Both Professors attend the work force development program meetings. Professor Manzano is on the Distance Education Advisory committee. Both professors are involved in the upcoming accreditation process for Santa Ana College: Professor Manzano is the faculty co-chair for the Section 4 committee, and Professor Robinson is serving on the Standard 2A committee. Professor Robinson also serves on SACTAC. Both professors are certified to teach distance education courses as well as many of the department's adjunct faculty.

The paralegal faculty represent the college at the Los Angeles/Orange County Workforce Development leaders. Professor Manzano and Robinson help sponsor and facilitate the Orange County Paralegal Association student section conference at Santa Ana College twice a year.

There is an advisory committee comprised of members of the public and of the legal profession. The advisory committee meets a minimum of two times per year. Student alumni are members of the advisory committee. All of our adjunct professors work in the local community as either attorneys or paralegals.

The program is currently revising the brochure to reflect major changes in the program curriculum. The web page now available on the SAC.edu web site has been completely revised in the Spring 2013 semester, and is still under development. The planned web site will have links to job opportunities and networking opportunities for students. The program also has a Facebook and LinkedIn page to support the program; Professor Robinson also has a twitter feed focused on legal issues.

Rick Manzano has taught at Santa Ana College for 25 years. His dedication to and longevity with the Paralegal program is respected by his peers. He and his wife live in Orange, in her childhood home. When he isn't working he can be found in his kitchen preparing items carefully nurtured and grown in his backyard for the evening meal.

Kristen Robinson has worked at Santa Ana College for two years. She is a mother to two children, a kindergartener and a three year old.

We congratulate the Paralegal Program's faculty and staff for the excellence of their program, their dedication to their profession and the service to our students and community.

An Overview

The Rancho Santiago Community College District has evolved into a comprehensive multi-college format, serving a population of more than 600,000 residents in Central Orange County. The two-college existence of RSCCD was born July 1, 1997, when the former Santa Ana Campus returned to the name of Santa Ana College, and the Orange Campus became known as Santiago Canyon College. The multi-college structure also includes the continuing education facilities in Santa Ana and Orange, a Garden Grove Center, the Business and Industry Services Center, the new Marketplace Educational Center, and a multitude of convenient locations throughout the district.

RSCCD students enjoy the benefits of quality of instruction in a personalized atmosphere that fosters numerous opportunities for learning. Approximately 3,000 classes offered each semester support associate degree and certificate programs that lead to transfer four-year colleges and universities, gainful employment, and many additional avenues for personal and professional enrichment.

Our commitment to excellence has its foundation in the quality of our professional faculty and staff, who provide the opportunities for students to realize their fullest potential, RSCCD is extremely proud of its tradition in providing the finest educational programs and services for our students, offering a comprehensive selection of educational service to the communities we serve.

A progressive institution serving a steadily expanding student population, RSCCD now enrolls more than 25000, students in college credit program, and more than 20,000 in continuing education classes for adult learner. Nearly 7,000 residents enroll in non-credit Community Services seminars and workshops, and each year approximately 500,000 individuals participate in activities held at our college facilities
