

CEC – Faculty Development Blog

We have had so much success with comments on the blog, that we plan to expand the Student Success Certificate blog and categorize it for easier access. We also hope to encourage teachers to begin to communicate ideas and share classroom practices. Currently the blog is more a repository for ideas. We hope it will eventually become an exchange where teachers respond to one another regularly and where mentoring and coaching can also take place. Click on WordPress below and then click on the Student Success Certificate Blog for the over 250 current comments.

