DISLOCATED WORKER

To be considered as a Dislocated Worker, you must meet one of the following requirements: (check the box that applies to you)

- Terminated or laid off from employment or received a notice of termination or layoff; and you are not returning to previous industry or occupation.
- Terminated or laid off from employment or received a notice of termination or layoff as a result of any permanent closure of, or any substantial layoff at, a plant, facility, or enterprise.
- Employed at a facility at which the employer made a general announcement that it will close within 180 days.
- Employed at a facility at which the employer made a general announcement that it will close.
- Self-employed person (including farmers, ranchers, or fishermen) who is unemployed because of natural disasters or because of general economic conditions in his/her community.
- A displaced homemaker: you must meet all of the following re-quirements:
 - you have been providing unpaid services to family members in the home;
 - you have been dependent on the income of another family member but is no longer supported by that income; and
 - you are unemployed or underemployed and is having difficulty obtaining or upgrading employment. An “underemployed” person is one who is working part time but wants to work full time or one who is working below the demonstrated level of his/her education or job skills.
- Note: if you quit your job, then you are not considered to be a dislocated worker regardless if you receive unemployment benefits.
- I do not meet any of the definitions of a Dislocated Worker listed above. Please correct my FAFSA to reflect this information.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that to the best of my knowledge, all of the information provided is true and complete. I understand that false statements or misrepresentations will be cause for denial or repayment of financial aid.
