

Identify your sleep pattern

Many factors contribute to your sleep. Identify how many of the following you are/are not practicing in the past two weeks to get a sense of your current sleep patterns.

Things that are known to make sleep worse:

- Nap during the day
- Watch television in bed
- Study in bed
- Use a device with a bright screen in the hour before bedtime (e.g. a smartphone, a laptop)
- Consume drinks containing caffeine (e.g. tea, coffee, cola, energy drink)
 - How many each day? _____
 - What time of the day was your last caffeinated drink? _____
- Drink alcohol / Use substances
- Eat a heavy meal less than 3 hours before bedtime
- Watch the clock while trying to fall asleep
- Stay in bed even if you can't fall asleep

Things that are known to improve sleep:

- Regular exercise
 - How many times a week? _____
 - What time of the day? _____
- Relaxation exercises (e.g. relaxed breathing exercises, progressive muscle relaxation)
- Turn off electronic devices at least 30 minutes before bedtime
- Have a relaxing bedtime routine
 - take a bath or a shower
 - read a comforting book
 - other: _____
- Set aside some 'worry time' each day to write down any issues that are bothering or concerning you, then decide to leave those worries behind until tomorrow
- Set the conditions for sleep
 - bedroom is completely dark
 - mattress and pillows are comfortable
 - bedroom is the right temperature
 - wear comfortable clothes other: _____

Sleep Hygiene

Maintaining healthy sleep is a habit you can learn. The following some tips/small changes that can be made in your daily routine to help ensure adequate sleep. Small changes day-to-day can have long-term benefits.

Take care of your body – Avoid the following, 4-6 hours before bedtime

- Do not drink caffeine. Avoid caffeinated coffee, tea and sodas in late afternoon and evening. If you must have coffee, have it only in the morning and have no more than two cups.
- Do not smoke. Nicotine is a stimulant. Note that some over-the-counter cold relief and pain medications contain caffeine or other stimulants.
- Do not eat heavy, spicy, or sugary foods. Your body needs time to digest, and eating certain types of food can impact ability to sleep.
- Do not drink alcohol or use substances. While alcohol has an immediate sleep-inducing effect, a few hours later as the alcohol levels in your blood start to fall, there is a stimulant or wake-up effect.

Sleep Habits

- Fix a bedtime and an awakening time. Try and wake up the same time every day, even if this is tiring to begin with. If you have consistent sleep problems, then try getting up half an hour earlier in the morning than your usual time; it may help you get to sleep that night.
- Light matters. Getting bright light in the morning can help. Crack your blinds so the sun shines on your bed when it's time to wake up. Use dim lights before bedtime, and if you read in bed (not recommended for those with sleep issues), use a dim light, as bright lights train your body to stay awake. Refrain from using a smart device (phone, tablet, computer).
- Nap smart. Many people feel sleepy in the afternoon and nap. This is not a bad thing to do if you limit the nap to 30 minutes and can sleep well at night. If you can't sleep well at night, try eliminating or shortening your naps.
- Sleep only when tired. Struggling to fall sleep can lead to frustration. If you're not asleep after 30 minutes, get out of bed, get up and do another activity elsewhere such as reading or listening to music (try and avoid TV as it can wake you up). After 15 minutes return to bed and try to sleep again.

Physical exercise

- Exercise regularly. Brisk walk, in the late afternoon can help to make your body tired and help you to sleep.
- Do not exercise right before bed. Strenuous exercise within the 2 hours before bedtime, can decrease your ability to fall asleep.

Bedtime routine - Teaches your body when it's time to go to sleep

- Food. Have a soothing drink like chamomile tea or warm milk. Warm milk and light snacks high in both carbs and tryptophan (e.g., a chicken, tuna or turkey sandwich; whole-grain cereal with milk or soymilk; pie with ice cream), may help when eaten 1 hour before bed. High-protein foods without carbs (e.g., meat or cheese with no bread) or heavy or spicy foods can prevent sleep.
- Have a bath, or a routine of washing your face and brushing your teeth.
- Go to bed at same time each night. Consistency in sleep routine, will allow your brain and body to regulate.
- Pre-Sleep exercise. When in bed think of nice things (e.g. think of 3 nice things that happened that day – they might be big or small: such as a nice conversation, having your favorite food for lunch, or hearing your favorite song on the radio)
- Do a relaxed breathing exercise. Diaphragmatic breathing (belly breath) allows you to breathe deeply in your stomach instead of high in your chest → Place one hand on stomach, and the other on your chest – slowly breath in through your nose and work on inflating your belly. Slowly exhale through your mouth, and deflate your belly. Allow yourself to breathe deeply in your stomach instead of high in your chest.
- Practice meditation. Relaxation techniques such as yoga, deep breathing, meditation and progressive muscle relaxation before bed may help relieve anxiety and reduce muscle tension.
- Leave worries behind. Jot down worries, to-do lists and other mental distractions on a notepad/paper before bed to decrease late-night ruminating.
- Sleeping position. Get in your favorite sleeping position. If you don't fall asleep within 15 to 30 minutes, get up, go into another room and do some light reading until you feel sleepy—then get back in bed and try again.

Sleep Environment

- Your bed. Make sure your bed is the right size and firmness for you. If the bedding is not comfortable, make appropriate changes.
- Temperature. If your bedroom is too cold or hot, it can keep you awake. A cool (not cold), well-ventilated bedroom is often the most conducive to sleep.
- Noise and light. Eliminate as much noise (perhaps with a white noise generator or fan) and light (with heavy curtains or an eye mask) as possible.
- Reserve the bed for sleep and sex. Don't use the bed as an office, workroom or rec room. Let your body know the bed is associated with sleep.
